John W. Snack, Businessman of W.T.H., is Dead

John W. Snack, West Terre Haute business man for more than sixty years, died at 10:55 Friday night at Union Hospital following an illness of one week. Mr. Snack, who was known as West Terre Haute's oldest businessman, was 81 years old.

Mr. Snack served on the Sugar Creek advisory board for a number of years and was a charter member of the Young Men's Club of West Terre Haute. He had been active in business and community affairs until a week ago when he was stricken ill.

The body was removed to Bedino Chapel of the Valley where funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon. Burial will be in Highland Lawn cemetery.

The Story of J.W.'s

The original Snack Saloon dates back to 1888 when John Snack realized the need for a watering hole in a small town located just across the Wabash River west of Terre Haute, Indiana. That town was appropriately named: West Terre Haute, Indiana. John operated the saloon for around 20 years when his son, J.W., decided to take over the operation. While transferring the liquor license to J.W., they realized the number on the original license was "001." Now that's an old liquor license. Prior to the acquisition of the saloon, J.W. owned a small grocery store, so when he decided to purchase a saloon folks thought it would be better to keep the store and close the saloon. "Close the saloon?"... not so fast. J.W. seemed to think that a town should have one watering hole for every church it had, that sort of kept things in balance. So the grocery store was sold and the saloon lived on, Yea!

J.W. always sat in a big leather chair just inside the entrance of the saloon to keep an eye on the place. Women seldom came into the saloon and on the occasions that they did, they were accompanied by their spouse. Regardless, with his large stature, commanding demeanor, and white dress shirt with a bow tie, J.W. would get up out of his seat with his hands on his hips as a signal that all loud laughing, talking and cursing be stopped immediately – there was a lady present who deserved respect. J.W. was a man's man and was a highly respected individual. He married his girlfriend Eva Shelton, said to be connected with the Shelton Brothers Gang – a surly band of bootleggers from southern Illinois. Any time the connection was brought up it was quickly squelched, end of conversation. One of J.W.'s granddaughters remembers that "one of granddaddy's favorite meals was a boiled squirrel and a Bloody Mary." Mmmm, sounds tasty!

J.W. SNACK'S MOVES WEST

YOU CAN STILL FUEL UP AT J.W. SNACK'S!

DEC. 2005 Danny Griffith, great grandson of J.W. Snack, along with his wife Teri open J.W. Snack's Gulf Coast Bar & Grill in Craig, Colorado. Converting what was an old Texaco service station into an oasis on the Western Slope of the Colorado Rockies. Flying by the seat of their pants, they had an idea of creating a place for people to sit, relax and enjoy an atmosphere that is far from the norm in Craig, and one J.W. himself would be proud of. Aside from the atmosphere, the food is another factor to take you from the Colorado norm. Serving dishes such as Louisiana-style fried catfish & shrimp and other Southern favorites like Gumbo, etouffee, fried okra, blackened catfish and more. Along with their award winning hot wings, you can enjoy smoked favorites including beef brisket, pork, chicken and spare ribs.
